

SPECTRA GIRLCHILD LEARNING CENTRE

COMMUNITY MEMBER'S-Anisha- CASE STUDY -(DHAKPURI, TIJARA)

Anisha is a resident of Dhakpuri, Tijara in Alwar district. She has always been very enthusiastic about teaching children. She always wanted children in her village to be well educated. Her participation in educating the children of her village is spectacular. Initially, as informed by Ms. Anisha, the children in her village never went to school. The locality where she lives is a little far from the main village location. As aforementioned, Ms. Anisha has always been very enthusiastic about getting the children of her locality educated. The children in her locality never went to school. The families were uneducated; hence no one understood the importance of education in an individual's life. Almost all the children were given admission in Government schools in the nearby areas but none went to school. The parents never encouraged the children for going to school either.

This condition of the local children bothered her very much. She was deeply hurt and wanted to do something for the children. She was trying every possible way to educate the children, when she got to know about the "Girl child Education Project" which is carried out in various villages by SPECTRA. She came in contact with the necessary person who could help her to fulfil her dream. After she gathered all information about Spectra Girl child Learning Centres, she started to inform her community members and encouraged them to send their girlchildren to the education centres. She went from one door to another to inform people about the learning centres.

She was finally successful in fulfilling her dream. She arranged a place where the learning centre would run. She brought girlchildren from all over her community and searched for a teacher who would dedicatedly teach the children. She tried every way possible to make sure that the children acquire knowledge and be educated. Though Ms. Anisha is not highly qualified, yet she knew the significance of education in an individual's life. She got news about both men and women doing great in their lives and going places with great success. The condition of her community's children disheartened her, which is why she took this massive step.

Presently, there are many students studying in the learning centre of Dhakpuri. Students of every class and level are getting proper education. The teacher in that particular learning centre is going a great job. The children show interest in studies. On interviewing Ms. Anisha after the successful running of the learning centre in her area, she has informed that she is extremely happy to see that children are finally getting educated in her locality. She also said that she wants children from her community to do great in their lives.

Ms. Anisha has not only done a great job in her community but had also set an example for other communities which are still not sending its children to schools or are oblivious of the fact that education is the prime necessity in the world right now. Ms. Anisha has saved many from the darkness of illiteracy and lack of education. She is also doing great justice to the Girlchild Education Project.
